

Do you love working with UX? Want to be on a team that's creating the best meeting solution in the world? Then FirstAgenda is for you!

We are looking for a new intern with a flair for UX Design in our Aarhus office here at FirstAgenda.

FirstAgenda is a SaaS-company that's making meetings smarter for thousands of users around the globe. Operating out of Boston, Dublin, Aarhus and Berlin the company has supported more than 70,000 users from both the public and private sectors.

We are a team of 50+ dedicated people with many different backgrounds. Our HQ is located in Aarhus, Denmark.

In the role of Intern, you will be working with a Product Manager and work as part of the Development department. Specifically, you will be part of a cross-functional development team – called a Squad – here you will be identifying new initiatives, building sketches, mockups, prototypes, graphics, doing user research and user testing, analytics, setting up A/B tests, etc.

Core Responsibilities

- User research: Assist in setting up and conducting user tests and user inquiries.
- User Experience design: Sketch, build mock-ups and visualization and turn these into prototypes.
- Do desktop research on latest trends within digital design and apply findings to solutions design.

Practical Details

- Location: Søren Frinchs Vej 44d, Aarhus.
- Period: Aug – Dec 2019. We're flexible to your studies!
- Application Deadline: Until we find the right candidate.

Do you have what it takes?

- Hold at least a bachelor's degree in Design, Computer Science, Engineering or related field.
- Solid understanding of product development from ideation to prototyping, user testing and implementation.
- Experience with visual design, building mockups and prototypes.
- Experience with identifying user needs and translating them into online and mobile product solutions.
- Experience with user behavior analysis - experience with tools like Google Analytics and Firebase is a plus.
- You have a good commercial understanding balancing user and business needs.
